Description/Photograph

Each of these products is a respiratory protective escape device (RPED) designed to filter noxious gases found in structural fires and to allow the user a 15-minute time window to escape to a safe source of breathing air.

Section 4: Details of HAZARD

Description of the hazard and possible health/safety damages and conclusions of the risk estimation and evaluation carried out

Brookdale recently undertook testing of EVAC-U8™ and EVAC+™ samples, one aspect of which focused on carbon monoxide “slippage”. Results of the carbon monoxide testing revealed carbon monoxide slippage of greater than the test threshold.

Use of EVAC-U8™ or EVAC+™ devices that exhibit carbon monoxide slippage levels greater than a certain threshold may not,

	depending upon the circumstances in which the devices are used, filter intended levels of carbon monoxide. This could potentially present a risk of various levels of carbon monoxide inhalation to users of these devices when used in circumstances involving the presence of carbon monoxide. Based on the test results and out of an abundance of caution, the company is recalling these devices.
Record of accident(s)	Brookdale is not aware of incidents where a user of EVAC-U8™ or EVAC+™ was exposed to harmful levels of carbon monoxide while using the device.
Section 5: Details of corrective ACTIONS already taken
Types/Scope/Duration of action(s) and precautions taken and identification of the company responsible	Based on the test results and out of abundance of caution, the company is recalling these devices. Recall notices have been sent to the company's distributors in the relevant Member States, as identified in Section 6 below.

COMPANIES SHOULD COMPLETE AND SEND SECTION 6 IN CASE OF A
